Daniel Burton

| Call 2009

Profile: Banking and Financial Services

Experience and Expertise

In 2012, Daniel spent six months on secondment at the Office of Trading providing advisory and drafting services in respect of regulation and licencing of consumer credit businesses, Government ratification of mortgage products and anti-money laundering provisions.

Before joining Chambers, Daniel spent a year in the Commercial Litigation department at Stewarts Law LLP, participating in particular in large-scale banking and finance litigation including the mis-selling of interest rate swaps and derivatives and claims involving loan facilities.

Daniel accepts instructions in relation to disputes over loan facilities and the mis-selling of financial products and has experience in advising members of unincorporated associations in relation to disputes arising out of the administration and constitution of their clubs.
