Peter Dodge is a commercial Chancery litigator with a broad practice in professional negligence, banking and financial services and property law.

He appeared in Dreamvar (UK) Ltd v Mishcon de Reya, the landmark professional negligence authority on the liability of solicitors and conveyancers in cases of property fraud. Having started his career as a fund manager at a leading investment bank, he has extensive recent experience of misselling claims relating to financial products generally and to failed or unsuitable investments in particular.

BANKING AND FINANCIAL SERVICES

The large number of misselling matters in which Peter has been instructed includes claims relating to interest rate hedging products (IRHP), collective investment schemes (both onshore and offshore and often involving geared property investments), investment bonds, structured deposits and other structured products, mortgages, pension transfers (often to a SIPP from an occupational scheme or a personal pension plan) and a variety of esoteric, anomalous and sometimes fraudulent products.

Failed investment schemes giving rise to claims in which Peter has been instructed include The Corran Resort and Spa, Laugharne (Kayboo), Needham House Hotel and Hever Hotel (Oak companies), various schemes associated with Northern Powerhouse Developments, Westbeach Holiday Park (Green Park branded companies) and 4 Great Moor Street, Bolton (Mederco).

In recent years, Peter has appeared perhaps more often than any other member of the Bar in cases concerning a claimant's date of knowledge for limitation purposes in the context of financial advice.

Peter's career in fund management began as part of a small team advising two offshore unit trusts and a UK authorised energy unit trust on investment in commodities and natural resource shares worldwide. He then joined his bank's institutional funds department, this managing UK equity and fixed interest portfolios on behalf of pension funds, charities, two quoted investment trusts and an authorised income unit trust. He also advised building societies and local authorities on their holdings of short-term money market instruments. He completed the London Business School's Investment Management Programme.

On coming to the Bar, Peter joined the Chambers of Timothy Lloyd QC (later Lloyd LJ) at 11 Old Square, often referred to as "the building society set" because of its expertise in the field of secured residential lending.
